Lightning Strikes Three Pickaway Barns

Structures Levelled By Flames

Utility Line Damage Light

Three Pickaway County barns were struck by lightning and levelled to the ground by flames within a half hour during a heavy rainstorm early Wednesday.

Circleville's rural fire truck was summoned at about 8:15 a. m. Wednesday to the G. H. Phillips farm, Circleville Route 1 on the Logan Elm Road, where lightning had struck a barn.

At the same time, Williamport firemen were called to a barn in the village owned by Floyd Hughes, which was struck by lightning and was burning.

And shortly afterwards, at about 8:20 a. m., both departments were summoned to the Cecil Caudy farm near Darbyville, where the Caudy cattle barn had been struck by lightning.

ENROUTE to the Caudy farm, Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise was stopped at about 8:30 a. m. in Pherson, where a house owned by Claude Zimmerman had been struck by lightning and its electric wiring damaged.

The chief said the wiring in the house was knocked out by the blast, that fuses were blown out, cords shorted and a patch of plaster knocked from the ceiling.

However, the lightning and heavy rains failed to cause much damage to either power or telephone utilities.

The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. office in Circleville reported that only a few farm lines were knocked out of operation by the storm.

Columbus and Central Ohio Electric Co. reported that no lines were blown down by the storm, although a few transformers fuses located west of the city were blown out.

Skies were so dark during the storm in Circleville that the street lights came on. Leonard Lytle, line foreman for the electric company, explained that the street lights are controlled by a device which turns them on automatically when it becomes dark.

FIRE CHIEF Wise said the Phillips barn south of Circleville was completely destroyed by flames. No animals or machinery were in the 40x60 foot building, although two tons of hay were burned up.

Wise said loss of the barn was not immediately determined. Williamport firemen estimated loss of the Floyd Hughes barn at about $3,000.

Harold Fry, member of the Williamport department, said the barn measured roughly 50x20 feet and contained a tractor.

Lucky Luciano Labeled Kingpin Of Dope Racket

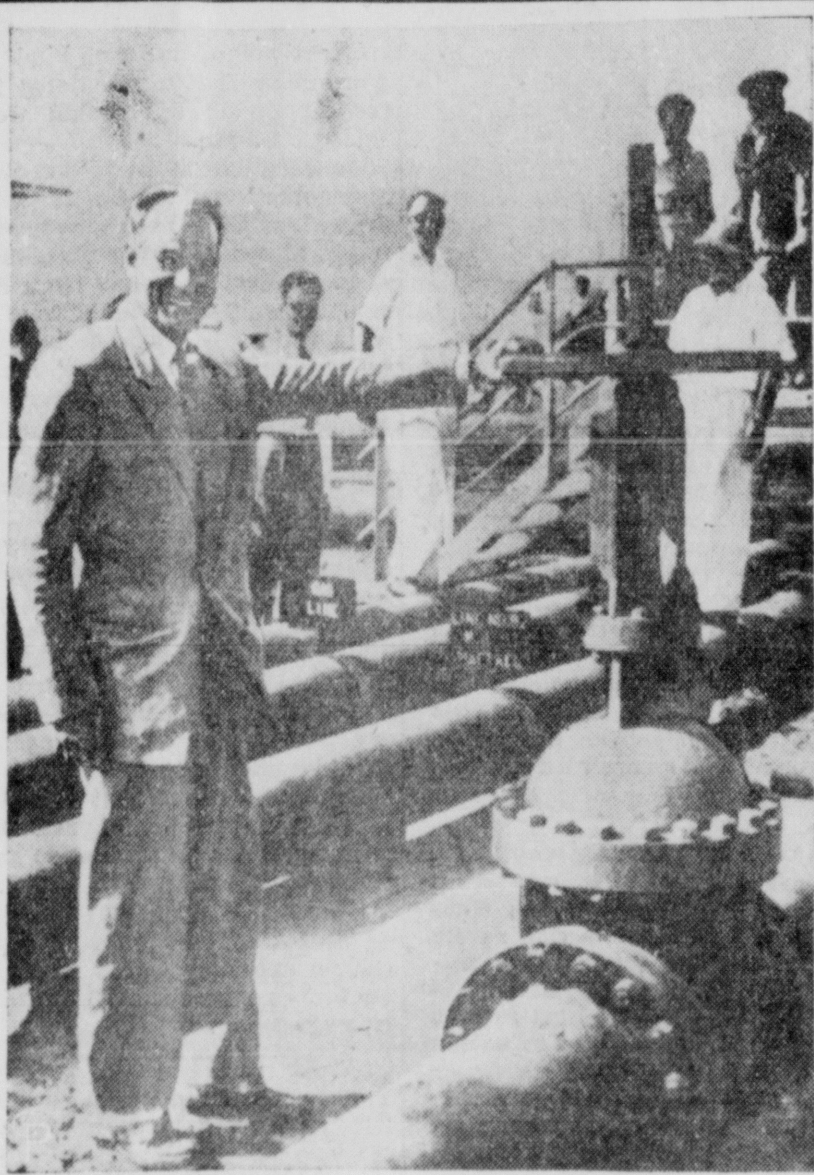

WASHINGTON, June 27 — A federal narcotics agent told the Senate Crime Committee today that Charles (Lucky) Luciano is the "kingpin" of drug traffic in the U. S. and Italy and mastermind of an international dope ring.

Charles Siragusa, whose investigations as a narcotics agent have covered the world, also testified that "big-time hoodlums" who engage in the dope racket are able to get U. S. passports to go overseas despite recommendations of his bureau.

He declared that the granting of U. S. passports is giving gangsters and representatives of the Mafia, Sicilian secret crime society, an opportunity to buy heroin for sale to addicts in this country.

Luciano, onetime New York vice lord who was deported to Italy, was described by Siragusa as a "big shot" in the Mafia. The agent said that narcotics are probably the "principal source of income" of the Mafia in the U. S.

Siragusa said that Luciano is "trying to branch out" in Europe. He said he got Italy to take up Luciano's passport and received "promises" from other countries to cancel his visas after the ex-New York gangster went to Germany last October "to try to organize the rackets."

WITH THE OIL DISPUTE between Iran and Britain "moving along the road to disaster," Hussein Makki, member of the Iranian committee assigned to taking over control of the Anglo-Iranian oil company, holds his hand symbolically on the oil valve at Abadan. Makki says he will turn the valve to shut off the flow of oil to tankers if Britain does not accede to Iranian demands. Meanwhile, Britain has ordered the 8,000-ton, heavily-gunned Cruiser Mauritius to Abadan to protect British subjects.

PRODUCTION BEING HALTED

U.S. Envoy Seeking Parley To Solve Iran Oil Dispute

TEHRAN, June 27 — United States Ambassador Henry F. Grady made a public appeal to Iran today to negotiate a temporary agreement with the British which would permit a continued flow of Iranian oil to the West.

The American ambassador's appeal came as work in one of the world's greatest oil industries began grinding to a halt coincident with a British show of force in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

British officials and employees of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. rejected today an Iranian government offer to continue their jobs.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had asked British and other foreign oil workers to stay at their posts, offering them the same wages and privileges under Iranian control as previously given by the AIOC.

The curtailment in the oil flow resulted from the refusal of British tankers to load fuel. These instructions came direct from the British government. As a result, production was halted at the oil field of Agha Jari, northeast of Abadan.

THIS STOPPAGE occurred as the 8,000-ton British Cruiser Mauritius steamed through the Persian Gulf and headed up the Shatt Al Arab river toward Abadan to protect British nationals working for the nationalized British-owned oil company.

Grady urged Iran to put aside the proposed law asking the death penalty for any person convicted of sabotaging the Iranian oil industry.

The measure is to be placed before parliament Sunday and it has been feared that if it is voted into law it might be applied to any British employee in the oil fields who failed to cooperate with Iran.

Amid the heightened tension, Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, who sponsored the nationalization bill which resulted in the dispute, summoned an emergency cabinet meeting to consider Britain's show of force.

The Agha Jari field, the first shutdown, closed its operations when all storage tanks became filled in the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Mashur. Other fields now are expected to close down during the coming days.

The suspension of the flow of Iranian oil to the West meanwhile threatened the possibility of gas rationing in Britain, France and other countries which are chiefly dependent on this Middle Eastern source of oil supplies.

A lengthy shutdown of the oil facilities was foreseen if British technicians withdraw from the fields. And there was mounting belief that evacuation of British oil workers is imminent following the arrival of the Mauritius off Abadan.

New Boston Now Rated As City

NEW BOSTON, June 27—New Boston could proudly take a deep breath today and declare itself a city, after all.

The U. S. Census Bureau said New Boston has only 4,752 inhabitants, but 5,000 people are required to make a city.

So the state legislature passed a bill permitting the community to count its own residents. The result: 5,499 inhabitants — and city status.

DOPE KILLS LAD, 17; FATHER SCREAMS:

'How Did We Fail Our Son?'

NEW YORK, June 27—An autopsy will be performed today on a 17-year-old victim of the narcotics traffic, but there remained one question beyond such legal inquiry:

"How did we fail our son?" This was screamed by the boy's father after medical efforts failed to save drug-tortured William Ryder.

Dr. Robert Johnson, senior resident physician in Knickerbocker hospital, graphically reported the end:

"The boy was near death when he was brought in. He was without heart beat. He gasped for breath a few times.

"His head and neck had turned blue. His pupils were dilated and fixed. His arms showed injection scars along the veins, particularly the left arm.

"It was apparent he had been using drugs some time. We injected adrenalin into his heart muscle and gave him oxygen—but it was too late."

As the boy died in agony, the confused and broken parents sobbed nearby. When it was over the boy's father cried:

"May God forgive us!" Despite the physician's report—"it was apparent he had been using drugs some time"

U.S. STRIVING FOR CLARITY ON SOVIET TRUCE PROPOSALS

CONFERENCE WITH MALIK BEING SOUGHT

UN Chieftains Trying To Pin Down Russia's Intentions In Cease-Fire

FLUSHING MEADOW, June 27—A United Nations drive to pin down Russia's real intentions on a Korean cease-fire before making any approach to Peiping shaped up today with Secretary General Trygve Lie's return from Norway.

The United States "direct approach" move in Moscow and UN plans for quizzing Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik get precedence—over any effort by Assembly President Nasrallah Entezam's "good offices" committee to establish contact with Mao Tse Tung's regime.

Lie called top aides at UN to confer with him this morning and arranged an immediate get-together with Entezam for a conference with the elusive Malik.

At the same time, U. S. Representative Ernest A. Gross received instructions from the State Department to go ahead and seek clarification from Malik.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb has similar directives from London.

Gross spent much of the morning secluded with aides in the U. S. delegation offices in New York City. He would not see newsmen.

A roundup of diplomatic opinion at UN indicated that Malik himself has been staying at the Glen Cove, L. I., estate of the Soviet delegation awaiting additional instructions from the Kremlin. Until these are received, either today or tomorrow, it seems likely he will remain "indisposed."

Entezam failed after all-day efforts yesterday to get an appointment with Malik.

Lie, who arrived at Idlewild Airport aboard a British Overseas Airliner from England, said he did not know when he would be able to make contact with Malik.

Lie pointed out that he and the Russian, whose government does not recognize Lie as secretary general, always "shake hands when we meet."

Lie said, "I am always hopeful—every chance for peace must be explored." He added: "I don't know if I can do much myself but I felt it was my duty to do what I can to get a cease-fire in Korea followed by a peace."

Lie said there were some points in Malik's statement which must be clarified, but he declined to identify the points. The "new paths to peace," as Entezam described Malik's offer to the 60-nation General

Assembly yesterday, include the following steps:

1. A direct approach to Peiping by the three-man UN "good offices" committee headed by Entezam. This could bring into consideration a flight to Peiping either by Entezam or a duly appointed representative.

2. The proclamation of an agreed statement of aims and principles by the 16 nations with troops in Korea, presented on behalf of UN either by Gen. Ridgway as unified command chief or perhaps by President Truman. This would be in the nature of outlining the UN peace program to Mao Tse-tung.

3. An indirect approach on behalf of UN through the ambassador of India in Peiping, Sardar K. M. Panikkar. He is said to be highly regarded by Mao and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

4. A formal call on the Soviet Union, through Malik or direct to Premier Stalin, for open intercession with Peiping for a cease-fire and truce.

One or all of the four ways suggested may come into use, but each step must first be given a searching examination by key diplomats.

FOR KOREAN MOTHERS and their children, driven from their homes during a year of grim warfare, hardships never cease. The problem of hunger has been alleviated to some degree by the United Nations relief teams that bring food and medical aid. Here two youngsters face empty bowls as they wait for the UN supplies to come.

Senate Is Nearing Final Vote On Controls Law

WASHINGTON, June 27—The Senate prepared today for a final vote on its controls bill as administration forces waged a last-ditch battle to strengthen the measure.

Majority Leader McFarland, (D) Ariz., ordered a night session in an attempt to complete the vote, on the bill and its amendments and said that if that proves impossible, action "certainly" will be completed tomorrow.

The House, meanwhile, is set to begin debate on its controls measure. House Democratic leaders hoped to wind up the five hours of scheduled debate today and vote on the measure tomorrow or Friday.

The Senate bill has come under administration fire because of a section which would prohibit price rollbacks below the level of last Jan. 25.

Price Chief DiSalle has asserted that the section goes far beyond the beef rollbacks, at which it was primarily aimed, and threatens to upset the whole price-wage stabilization program.

ADMINISTRATION supporters plan to force a vote on their amendment to remove the anti-rollback section, but they were working behind the scenes on alternatives to be offered if that effort fails.

It was learned that one alternative would provide for federal "equalization payments," a form of subsidy, to producers of beef and copper who could show an increase in costs.

Envoy Talks To Deputy In Kremlin

Acheson Warns On Optimism

WASHINGTON, June 27—Secretary of State Acheson declared that the United States hopes to obtain some clarification today of the Russian proposal for a truce in Korea and warned that the fighting there "may very shortly spread."

Acheson made his remarks before the House Foreign Affairs Committee as word came from Moscow that U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk had called on Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in the Kremlin.

Kirk is under instructions to seek a clarification of the Soviet cease-fire proposal, as is U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Ernest Gross.

The State Department said that it had received a preliminary cablegram from Kirk confirming the meeting with Gromyko and saying that he will make a full report later.

Asked about the meaning of the Soviet proposal, Acheson replied:

"We have not yet found out. We hope today will bring some more light on it. There is no further light on the subject at this moment than Mr. Malik's statement."

MALIK, SOVIET delegate to the UN, declared in a radio address last Saturday that it would be simple and desirable for the belligerents in the Korean fighting to arrange a truce along the 38th Parallel.

Rep. Judd, (R) Minn., questioned Acheson as to whether the Communists wanted to conclude the Korean fighting so that they could press a stronger attack against Indochina or Burma.

Acheson replied: "We have choices between undesirable ones and we have to pick the less undesirable. With all the dangers you have mentioned, they are still less, I think, than continuing to fight which is getting hotter and hotter and which may very shortly spread."

The secretary emphasized that the effectiveness of any Korean truce would depend upon the "self-interest" of the Soviet Union and the Chinese Communists. He declared:

"It is impossible to get guarantees (against new aggression) in the sense that we would have complete assurance. For one thing, you cannot rely on the word of the people with which you are dealing."

"But if it affects their self-interest, then there is a better chance of observance."

Committee members pointed out that Acheson thus again underscored the strong suspicion of Soviet motives which has marked the U. S. government's reaction to the Malik proposal.

The cabinet member told Rep. Mansfield, (D) Mont., in re-

Korea Scores Truce At Border

PUSAN, June 27—The Republic of Korea national assembly unanimously voted today against any cease-fire at the 38th Parallel and resolved to so inform the governments of nations fighting in Korea.

A resolution which is to be sent to the United Nations said merely:

"The Korean people oppose a cease-fire at the 38th Parallel which was suggested by Soviet Union UN Delegate Jacob Malik."

In commenting on the cease-fire proposal, one of the legislators, Kwack Tae-chin, said "a cease-fire at the 38th Parallel will repeat the same failure" which the Chinese Nationalists experienced when they tried to effect "a coalition settlement" with the Communists.

wheat, drill, plow, 80 bales of hay and about two tons of loose hay.

A Williamsport resident said that he had been looking toward the barn when the building was struck by the lightning. He said it looked as if the building exploded.

While attempting to roll up their hoses, the Williamsport firemen were summoned to the Caudy farm. Arriving there, they helped Mt. Sterling firemen who had been called earlier.

The Caudy barn was completely destroyed also, although no estimate of damage was made. Deputy Sheriff James Diltz said a cow had been in the cattle barn when it began burning, but that she ran outside to escape.

A VIOLENT wind and rain storm left the Lebanon area without electric power for nearly a half-hour Wednesday and disrupted service to about half of the community's telephones.

Telephone and electric utility companies reported heavy damage to poles and lines as a result of the storm which dropped .75 inch of rain.

Meanwhile the City of Dayton was soaked "through and through" with one and one-tenths inches of rain that fell during a half-hour electrical storm. Some sections of the city were without electric power for a time.

High humidity conditions blanketed Ohio Wednesday and brought in two more days of continued warm weather.

"The humidity is on the discomfort side with grains per pound of dry air more than 90 in some places," said the weather forecaster.

The humidity resulted from a clash between a high pressure system in the southeast corner of the country with a low pressure area north of Lake Superior, he said.

"WE CAN expect scattered thundershowers in most places of the state today," he said. "The warm weather will continue until Friday when it will shift to the cooler side."

The weather bureau reported that crop growth has been very good throughout the state and most fields appear in excellent condition. Corn fields are one to two feet high and wheat and oats fields have improved considerably, the bureau said.

In the warmer southern areas, the report stated, tomatoes are beginning to turn red and fruit growth is reported to be excellent.

$1,710 Claim OK'd For Hurts To Youngster

Settlement for $1,710.44 of a claim for personal injuries to a minor as a result of a two-car accident has been approved in Pickaway County probate court by Judge Earl D. Parker.

The accident took place Dec. 26, 1950, on the Circleville-Kings Road in Pickaway Township when a car operated by George H. Emerson and an auto in which Sidney G. Graves, 11, was a passenger collided.

No lawsuit was filed on the claim, Emerson, while denying liability for the injuries to the youngster, offered to pay the sum in full settlement. The offer was accepted by Frank Graves, the girl's father and driver of the car in which she was riding.

Sen. Brewster, (R) Maine, and some other committeemen took the stand that a report or series of reports would be virtually meaningless since 26 senators are bound to differ on many issues of the hearings.

If formal reports are decided upon, both Republicans and Democrats agreed there would be more than two. Senators of both political parties have said there would be agreement on one item:

Although President Truman may have been entirely right in firing MacArthur, the dismissal was poorly handled.

2 Trains Hit Car; Man Lives

CINCINNATI, June 27—A 31-year-old Cincinnati man is alive today because he remained seated at the wheel of his auto while two trains struck him from opposite directions.

Clayton Busch is recovering from a head laceration, bruised arm and swollen ankle received here Monday when he beat a northbound freight train to the crossing, but was struck by a southbound passenger train. The impact hurled his car into the train he had just missed.

"At the time," Busch said, "I thought it was best to stay in the car and hold to the steering wheel." Busch was still hanging onto the wheel when his demolished car was tossed aside.

And A Little Child Shall Lead Them

Fifth, Sixth Graders Spearhead Mexico's Drive Against Illiteracy

By RUTH WATT MULVEY
Central Press Correspondent

MEXICO CITY—"Very good," the small boy nodded approvingly to the man who had finished a sentence after laborious effort.

"Here," he handed the childish primer to another man who towered over him. "You try." And, the man painstakingly informed the circle of campesinos gathered around the small boy in the home of Gutierrez that "the coat is blue."

The scene in the house of Gutierrez in a little village in central Mexico is one of hundreds of similar scenes apparent today in all parts of the republic of Mexico. And, the teacher who was "12-almost-13" is not a particularly precocious kid, but one of the hundreds of fifth and sixth graders in Mexico organized in the Brigadas Infantiles de Alfabetizacion. The homework of these young school students is to instruct their elders in the mysteries of reading and writing.

IT IS ALL PART of Mexico's determination that its people shall be educated.

Since the literacy campaign was undertaken in 1944, more than three million men and women have learned to read and write. And, the government is eager that the remaining three and one half million shall follow suit.

It has not been exclusively governmental concern. The whole population has aided in the most comprehensive co-operative project Mexico has ever known. Government clerks and housewives have formed neighborhood classes which are held in homes or on the sunny slopes of hillsides. In the huge penitentiary in Mexico City, the more lettered inmates are teaching their colleagues various subjects and at present 400 prisoners are enrolled in the "Alphabet Class."

Besides maintaining schools in the capital and in other cities and villages, the Ministry of Public Education headed by Manuel Gual Vidal has worked superhumanly to carry the "A B C's" into remotest parts of the country.

THERE ARE even vast reaches of the country where the people have never learned to speak Spanish—much less read or write—and who still cling to the ancient tribal dialects. These people must be instructed, the government feels, to effect the industrialization of Mexico most completely. A tremendous educational campaign is under way in the Papaloapan river basin—an area the size of Holland, which Mexico is reclaiming through the greatest public works project this country has ever known. In this area, soon to become one of the most productive and industrialized parts of Mexico, 200,000 of the 1,100,000 inhabitants know nothing but ancient tribal dialects.

Most powerful weapon to date have been the Public Education's "cultural missions." These teams of teachers, nurses and vocational specialists have gone into hopelessly under-developed sections of the country to bring knowledge and health. Traveling by muleback, jogging over no-roads in little jeeps, and penetrating the upper reaches of the Papaloapan and other rivers on small launches, these "missionaries" are helping the people of Mexico to bridge the gap between their Fifth Century way of life and the Twentieth Century.

IN 1948, Mexico's President Miguel Aleman made an appeal for private assistance with the school construction program. By the end of 1950, there were 3,294 local committees of businessmen and public spirited persons functioning throughout the country and the activities of those groups had resulted in the construction of 2,693 new schools with facilities for 700,000 pupils. Banks, trade unions, breweries, hotel men, automobile assembly plants, large industries, movie owners, women's federations and civic clubs have been most active.

One of the important factors in the "Children's Brigade" phase of the campaign which was conceived and organized by Manuel Lopez Davila. The pupils, themselves, have become remarkably apt teachers.

SELECTED from those who have completed the fifth and sixth grades, they work through clubs of a more or less social nature which are also serving as alphabetical centers. And, just in case any of them are tempted to play hookey from classes or to be lax about their homework, Professor Lopez Davila has provided a system of rewards for the best students of each term to the best student-instructors and include books, school equipment and toys—"taking always into consideration the age they have."

Success has been so great in the past year, that there is a plan under consideration which will extend the campaign north of the border when the local battle is ended and provide instruction service in Mexican communities living outside the country.

The cost of living rise, due chiefly to an eight-tenths of one percent increase in food prices, brings the index to 185.4 percent of the 1935-39 average and 9.5 percent above the level of a year ago.

The additional pay raise for the railway workers results from escalator clause in work contracts. This clause provides for an additional cent an hour increase for every one percentage point gain in the index during a three-month period.

The pay increase goes to one million non-operating railway employees and 150,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The pay boost is effective July 1.

The index rose on April 15 to a new all-time high of 184.6 percent of the 1935-39 average under the computation.

Looking Ahead

Out of all the debating that has swirled around the issue of "economic security" during recent years one concrete fact stands out unassailable. It is that the economic welfare of the people of America depends on the volume of goods and services produced in the nation. Economic welfare comes only from this production.

If the wealth-melon doesn't grow bigger, then no matter how you slice it, it won't go any farther. This is a simple economic fact on which a lot of people ought to do a lot of thinking.

All the bookwork that could be done by all the bureaus in Washington couldn't change that fact. If American business and industry and agriculture do not boost their employee productivity and the over-all volume of their products during the next ten years, the living standard of the average American will not improve — no matter what political party is in the White House, or who is secretary of the treasury or budget director.

And "liquidating" the big personal incomes won't change it, for all this money only adds up to a few dollars per person for our 150 million people; and since it pays for the management brains which keep our production progressing, appropriating it for tidbit distribution throughout the whole population would be far more damaging than helpful.

WHAT HAPPENED at Jamestown in 1609 is a good illustration of what production means. The settlers at Jamestown first tried communalism—a form of communism—as a way of life. All the production of the fields, the vineyards, herds and flocks was pooled in one communal storehouse and everybody got equal shares. But the least industrious of the colony soon discovered their equal-shares would come to them whether they worked or not. They ceased working and loafed.

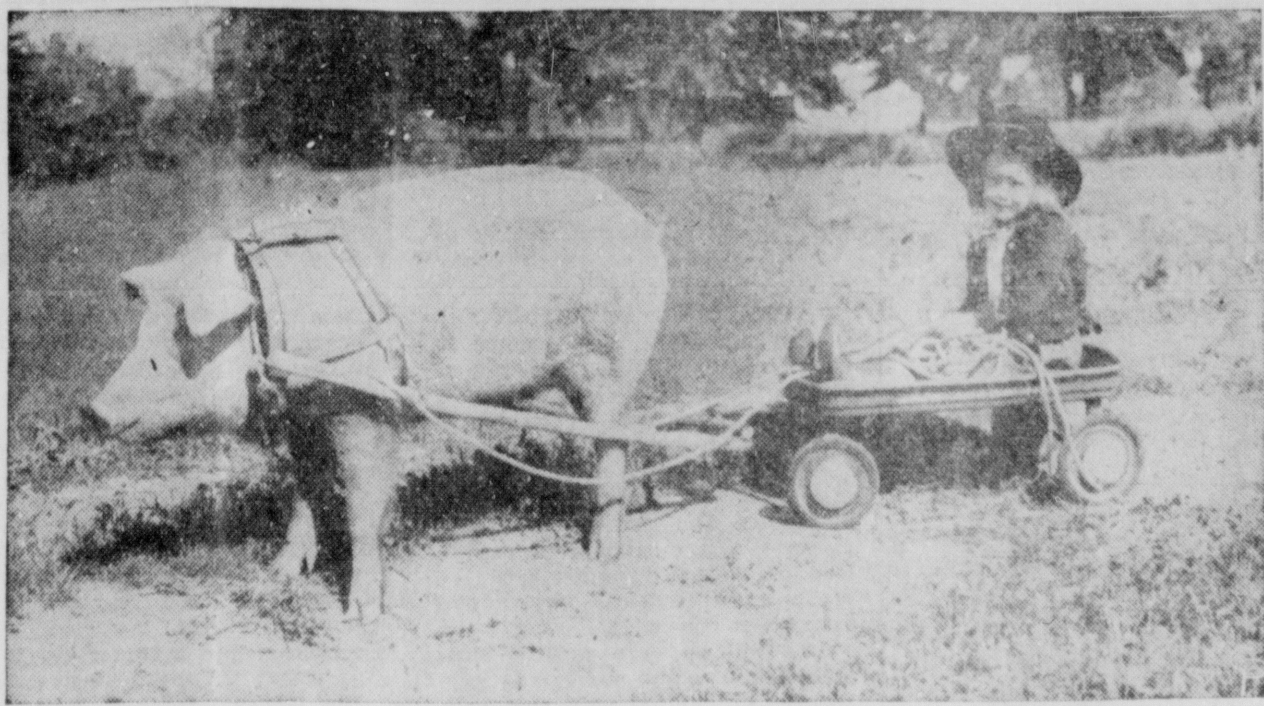

When a number of others did likewise, production dropped sharply and the storehouse supplies dwindled. The curtailment of food reached everybody. The community leaders called the situation to the attention of the Jamestown people and communalism was discarded.

A system of private property and individual responsibility called "private enterprise" was established. The loafers had to work or starve.

They began to work. And as everybody began to enjoy the fruits of their individual labors, the total production in Jamestown rose, and in the process everybody's welfare and economic security improved.

That's exactly what has happened, on a larger scale, in the whole of America. Among Americans there have developed production geniuses such as Ford, McCormick, Chrysler, Kettering and others who have been able to make goods faster and at lower cost, to develop labor-saving devices and techniques, and constantly invent and produce new and better products. Our productive system has, since Jamestown, created a national economy which today provides jobs and a constantly improving living standard for nearly 60,000,000 persons in private employment.

BUT WHAT HAPPENED at Jamestown could under the communal system (and would happen here if the wealth produced in agriculture and industry and the service trades were to be funneled into the Federal treas-

"IT JUST ISN'T NATURAL," said folks in Pocahontas, Ill., 50 miles northeast of St. Louis, the first time 5-year-old Georgia Mae Weiss rode down the street in a small wagon pulled by Clarabelle, Georgia Mae's 100-pound pet pig. But now they are used to it. Docile as a pet pony, Clarabelle doesn't mind being shackled in the harness made by Ted Weiss, father of the little girl, and gently responds to the whims of Georgia Mae when she touches the pig with her whip as they ride all over town. 100 mph. Ride Brings Death To Two Teen-Agers

TROY, June 27 — Two teen-agers were killed and three others injured Tuesday when a car traveling over 100 miles an hour plunged over a curve near Troy and flipped over and over. The dead are Robert P. Lee, 17, of near Urbana, and Clyde Samples, 13, of Troy.

Another teen-ager, 17-year-old Dorothy Hewitt of Troy, is in critical condition in a Troy hospital.

The highway patrol said the car, with Lee at the wheel, was traveling in excess of 100 miles an hour when it struck a utility pole along Route 70 after swerving out of control.

The car smashed into a guard rail with such force that the rail

Knee-High Corn May Need Help

Side-Dressing Seen Increasing Yield

CHICAGO, June 27—A side-dressing of nitrogen on corn anywhere from the knee-high stage to second cultivation can pay off in extra bushels per acre at harvest time.

The Middle West Soil Improvement Committee said that the corn itself will tell farmers if it needs nitrogen.

The committee says: "Spindling stalks and pale green leaves are early hunger signs. Yellowing and firing particularly of the lower leaves are other signs of nitrogen starvation. Side-dressed nitrogen fertilizer must be in moist soil before the crop can use it. If it is placed shallow in dry soil, rain must follow if the corn is to benefit."

Many agronomists recommend that it be placed deep enough to be in moist soil, and in the middle between the rows so that as few feeding roots as possible are pruned.

An acre of corn uses about 3.5 pounds of nitrogen during the first 30 days of growth, tests have shown. But at the peak of the fast growing period of July and early August, it demands approximately four pounds of nitrogen every 24 hours.

"IF THE CORN CROP runs short of nitrogen during this period, you may get a lot of nubbins, for the corn plant regulates the size of the ear to match the amount of nitrogen available to the plant when the ears are shooting," the committee says. It adds:

"When your corn has plenty of nitrogen, you will get full-sized ears. And if the soil has a good foundation of phosphate and potash, the ears will have fully-developed, well filled kernels and straight rows of kernels. The nutrients can be added in the form of a complete fertilizer broadcast or plowed down before planting and a starter fertilizer applied in the row."

Death and retirement open up a million jobs every 60 days in the United States.

POOR BUSINESS

THERE are certain fundamental rules of business which apply to concerns regardless of size if they are to be successful. In fact, the larger the business the more need there is for careful operation, the chance of loss increasing proportionately to the size of the operation.

The most tremendous business in the nation today is government, and one which should call for the most careful administration. This is far from being the case, however, as has been proved many times in the past.

The government owned many war-built structures for which there was no longer immediate use. They were either given away or sold for a few cents on the dollar of original cost. Then the government decides it needs one of these buildings for storage purposes, and leases it at commercial rates.

It has been learned the Commodity Credit Corporation leased many buildings to private operators at greatly reduced rates, only to lease them back for storage purposes at commercial rates, and the great profit of those who have been thus favored.

The government spent many hundreds of millions of dollars building warehouses. Many fell into private hands through sale or lease. Now they are again under government control at high rates of rental, which hardly passes for good business. One reporter describes it as "robbery without firearms." This appears to be a realistic description.

THE PURPOSE IN KOREA

WHEN the United States, carrying the banner for the United Nations, entered the Korean war the purpose was proclaimed to be to restore self-government to the Korean people and punish aggression wherever found.

Whatever the original purpose may have been in entering the Korean conflict it has been changed, apparently as a result of the confusion of many nations having a finger in the pie. It also appears that the United Nations is no longer concerned over the principles involved and will be content with a stalemate, which will call for more American casualties and in no way serve the purpose intended.

The Korean war, then, has departed from principle. If Communist aggression was wrong when the United Nations ordered U. S. forces to enter the conflict, it is equally wrong today. To temporize is to endorse a situation which was deemed so repugnant 75,000 American casualties have been incurred in an effort to upset it.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Certain individuals have gained a reputation as Far Eastern experts. Some of them are teaching in our universities. In November 1948, the New York Star, now extinct, invited a number of them to say why the Communists were then winning in China and what the United States should do about it. Remember the date—Nov. 21, 1948!

I thought I would go back and see what these experts had to say at that time. These men were supposed to know more than most. They had had exceptional opportunities. This is part of the comment of Edgar Snow, for many years the Far Eastern expert for the Saturday Evening Post:

"What can and should the United States do about it? Three things: (1) Return to our traditional policy of non-intervention in the internal political affairs of China and the right of self-determination; (2) Insist at the United Nations that other powers do likewise; (3) Proclaim to the Chinese people the deep and abiding friendship of America, and its readiness to support any practicable efforts to solve the enormously complex economic problems underlying the present revolution."

Owen Lattimore, once associated with the OWI and now at Johns Hopkins university, said:

"We have, by aiding the Chinese government too much and too soon, gravely imperiled American interests in China. Nevertheless, our national interest remains. Our sheet-anchor in China is the good will of the Chinese people. To conserve that good will we should cease all activities that prolong and embitter the civil war."

"But we should not pull up all stakes and clear out of China in a panic. We should continue every form of activity, especially economic reconstruction, that will in the long run benefit the Chinese people, whatever their form of government."

Professor John K. Fairbank of Harvard said:

"The United States cannot save the present Chiang Kai-shek regime and should avoid any commitment to support it in exile. We should not send more military aid now because there is little chance of its having a good influence."

"Meanwhile, we should leave American representatives in China and try to maintain contact with the Communist areas as long as possible. Chinese Communists inheriting the Kumintang mess are certain to face big problems and must either seek our cooperation or more probably give us eventual excellent opportunity to support anti-Communist movements."

Annalee Jacoby, co-author of "Thunder Out of China," wrote this:

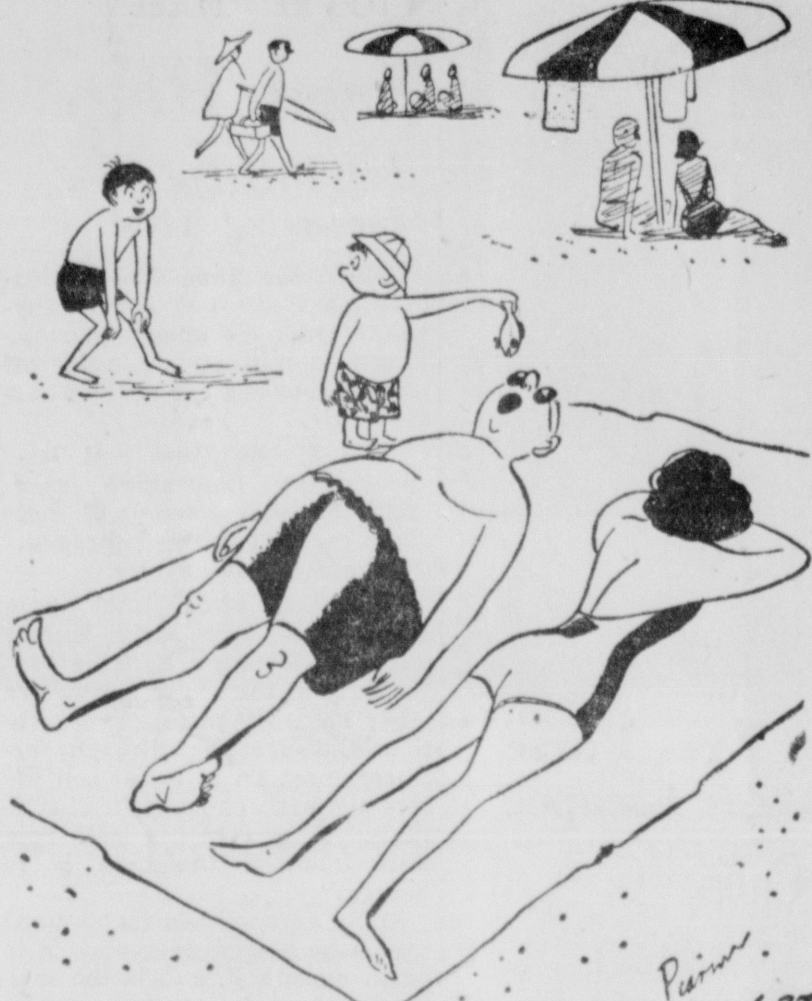

"The Communists are sure of a military victory. They know, though, that U. S. supplies and advice are necessary to rebuild China; they know that Chiang's technicians are far more able than their own; they know that hungry peasants may turn against them during postwar chaos. Their confidence plus their need may make them decide to yield politically. We'll then have a coalition as shaky as Czechoslovakia's—but this is our best remaining chance in China."

Professor Nathaniel Peffer of Columbia university, said:

"There is nothing America can do to arrest what is now in process of conclusion. The Nationalist government has to go. If America wants to, it can take its place—that is, act as government of China and send over a big army as military support for that government. That probably would mean fighting the larger part of the Chinese people and the Russians as well. It is

Oldest Operative Procedure

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PERHAPS the only operation practiced both by semi-civilized tribes and the best-informed doctors is circumcision. Certainly, it is the oldest operation of which we have record, dating back long before scriptural times to at least 5000 years B.C. And still today it is considered so well worth while that most male babies are circumcised before leaving the hospital where they are born.

Of course, there are certain considerations which may make it wise to postpone this procedure. For example, if the baby is premature or feeble, the operation should not be carried out until he is strong enough to withstand it. If the child shows signs of jaundice at birth, it is well to postpone circumcision, especially if there is some form of hemorrhagic disease present, since circumcision at such a time might prove disastrous.

Hemophilia, a condition in which there is a disturbance in the clotting mechanism of the blood, is another reason for postponing circumcision, and the infant should be tested to determine whether or not hemophilia is present before the operation is attempted.

In a listless baby who takes his feedings slowly, is very slow to gain weight, and cries out before wetting his diaper, circumcision may be an absolute necessity. In such infants, there is usually a constriction of the opening that permits urination. Sometimes these cases are neglected and this may result in permanent injury.

Recently, it has been stated that a person who has not been circumcised has a greater chance of developing cancer of the genital organs than the circumcised individual. In fact, cancer of the genital organs is almost nonexistent in those who have been circumcised.

From a hygienic point of view, circumcision is important. Today, it is a simple procedure in the infant and does not involve extensive surgery or risk.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Malik's dove of peace is undergoing the usual immigration tests for imported birds that come in on visitor's visas.

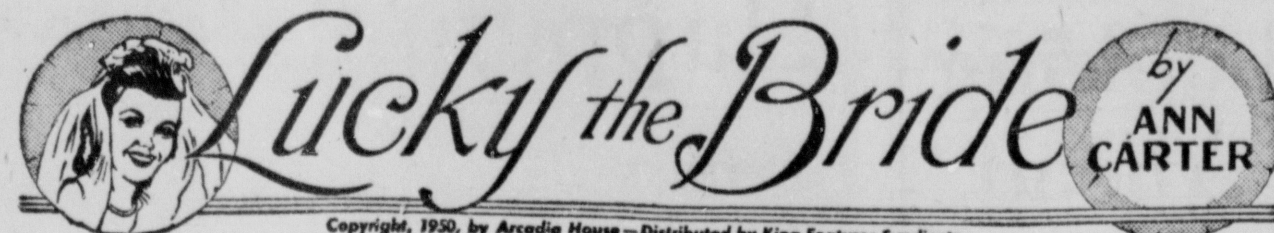

First impression was that this dove is no bird of paradise and its wing structure is being checked against the cuckoo.

Mr. Truman's remarks at the opening of our newest wind tunnel indicated which way the breeze was blowing in Washington and it seemed to be away from Jake.

Not that we needed a peace offer—Acheson already had said that the action in Korea "has been a success" and we are all familiar with his record as a right guesser.

But it was nice of Jake to bring up the subject. For months there the Soviet refused to recognize that this was anything but a clash between capitalists from the south and simple farm folk from the north defending their corn crop.

His original premise was that the United States had attacked North Korea using South Koreans as a clever screen, but he either has abandoned that one or is freshening it up for later use.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

SHE'S HAD a good chance to blossom, Julie thought, looking at Betsey. Her voice was low and she seemed the best-poised girl in the room. No excited tremors, no giggles, no silly chit-chat. At seventeen, she was ready to enter the university and had already been tapped for the leading sororities. Her public appearances with the violin since she was twelve had also given her poise.

The judges were mostly from out of town, and none was personally acquainted with the girls. That the committee had insisted upon. We want no local politics, they had said.

The buzzer rang. It was curtain time again. Julie thought. Thank goodness this is almost over! But the counting of the votes—that would take at least half an hour, she supposed.

Julie went back to the dressing room where the girls sat quietly waiting. Patty was in tears.

"Can I get you a cup of tea, Pat?" asked Julie.

"Oh, yes, Miss Thorndyke, please," Pat gulped. "May I go with you?"

"Of course, come along."

Outside in the hall, Pat leaned up against a door casing and wept bitterly. "Oh, I know I don't have a chance, and I lost it by being so silly all week long, Julie."

"It's too late to think about that now, Patty. And of course, you must remember that it's nicer to be a good loser than to cry over it. That makes the other girls feel badly. All of you couldn't have won. But don't you think the girl who worked the hardest deserves to win?"

"Yes, of course. But that Betsey! She's always been so pretty. Always had things handed out to her on a silver tray! Of course she's a wonderful girl. But then it's easy for some people to be wonderful."

"Yes, I know, Pat," said Julie. "Come along, honey, no more tears!"

In the kitchen she and Pat ate silently, sipping their tea. Julie had sent one of the women up with a tray for the girls in the dressing room.

"I'd just love to go to Seaside," Pat said, "but I don't suppose I'll get to. My boy friend's car broke down last night."

"Dad's going to take the station wagon up for the final day—that is, a Sunday. He's going to take any of the contestants who want to go. Of course you can go, Pat. I'll put your name on the list first!"

"Oh, that's awfully nice, Julie. Gee, I think you're swell! And say, I do hope Betsey wins—and wins the state meet, too."

Julie was pleased with Pat's sudden generosity. She smiled warmly at her and said, "That's nice of you, Patty. I think Betsey has a very good chance tonight. She played the violin very well. But your original short story was quite good. Are you going on to college? Why don't you major in English?"

"I've always wanted to write, Julie. Do you think I'd have a chance?"

"Of course! But a writer has to get the words down on paper! It's hard work, but it's fun, too. Come over to my house some evening, Pat, and we'll talk about it."

"Oh, thank you, Julie. If I only could!" Stars leapt into her eyes. And Julie knew that she'd already forgotten her disappointment of the evening.

"We'd better get on up to the auditorium, Patty. You girls all come back on stage, you know." They rose and set their cups back on the counter.

Julie caught a glimpse of Jeff as she took Patty back to the dressing room. He was standing in the main hall, talking with Mr. Carey. Julie hadn't seen him since the night before.

Jeff smiled at her. After the event was over, he had planned to meet her backstage and then take her some place to relax and eat a light supper. Alex, who was with Sharon in the audience, was to drive the station wagon home.

"Two minutes!" said someone, coming to the dressing room door. The next moment, the chairman of the judging committee was handing the final decision to the M. C. Mr. Carey's voice was asking for the contestants to come on stage now.

Julie stood in the doorway. She said in a low voice, "Girls, we've been very proud of all of you tonight. Now when the winner is announced, let's give her a great big hand!"

Every head went up, every girl smiled. "On stage!" said Julie. Applause rang from the audience as the girls took their places once more.

Then quiet—that breathless quiet that comes when a big announcement is to be made. A moment later the winner, Betsey, was flushed with happiness and walking to the center of the stage to receive the large bouquet of roses Mr. Carey held out to her.

Sitting with Jeff at a small table in the quiet of the lounge in the Hotel Nereus, Julie gave a sigh of relief. "Glad that's over!"

"It was much too big a job to wish on you, Julie, and I'm sorry that I asked you to take it. But you certainly handled it beautifully."

Copyright, 1950, by Arcadia House. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

I'm not sure that we ought to expect you to go to Seaside. It's been quite a strain, with your regular work at the studio."

"Oh, the staff has been swell. I've had good help, and Mr. Carey's a peach. Of course I'll go to Seaside and see the thing through. It's just all the emotion of the girls that's nerve-racking. At Seaside, I'll be responsible only for Betsey! Some of the girls here worked just as hard as she, but they simply didn't have what it takes."

"They were wonderful sports about it, though. Were there any tears behind scenes?"

"A few. But surprisingly little. Probably reserved for tonight's pillow."

"Well, let's forget the contest now! Julie, how about going out on a beach picnic tomorrow evening? I'll get steaks for the two of us—come by the house or the studio, if you say."

"Oh, I think that would be lots of fun. Call for me at the house, Jeff, please. That'll give me a chance to change into slacks and beach jacket. About six-thirty?"

"That's fine. We'll drive down the coast a bit."

They didn't stay long after that. Jeff took her to her door and kissed her good night. Julie, going upstairs, realized again that she had been under a strain all week. Jeff's suggestion about a picnic was just right.

Next morning she showered and dressed and went downstairs to breakfast. Her parents were already seated.

"I must say you've come through the ordeal of the contest better than I expected!" observed her mother.

"I'll feel it later. In fact, I felt it yesterday. I'm going on a beach picnic with Jeff tonight. That should help."

"Been seeing quite a lot of Jeff Douglas, haven't you, Julie?" asked her father, good-naturedly.

"Quite a lot, Dad."

"And Cy?"

Julie smiled. "As if you didn't know! I'll bet Mums told you the minute I told her. If not, then tell him later, won't you, Mums? I'm ravenous this morning. And not much time!"

"Oh, your mother told me last week, honey. Why not bring Jeff home with you for dinner some evening soon? Or Sunday?"

"That's all right with you, Mother?"

"Of course, Julie. I've only been waiting until this contest business was out of the way. It's fine. We're having a wonderful dinner anyway. Yes, I think it's time we got better acquainted with Jeff."

See Sherman Succeeding
Bradley as Head of JCS

Admiral Regarded Highly
By Army and Air Force

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Gen. Omar Bradley's term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff expires soon and there is a growing belief in military circles that Adm. Forrest P. Sherman may be named to replace him. Sherman's performance as a witness in the Senate investigation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal has boosted the admiral's chances considerably.

Some military men have expected President Truman to reappoint Bradley for another two-year term as JCS chairman, but the five-star general is quite willing to step down. Bradley's friends say he is willing to stay on in uniform if the President directs him to do so, but they report that Bradley believes that Sherman could handle the JCS job flawlessly.

Backers of Sherman point out that he commands the respect of the Army and Air Force and that the Navy under his regime as chief of naval operations has developed not only in strength but in morale.

NEW TANK—The United States has developed a new heavy tank to match Russia's Stalin III, but it will take at least a year to get it in production. In the meantime, the outgunned United States Patton tank will have to meet the Red tanks in Korea. More than a dozen prototypes of the new 55-ton

American tank have been turned out by the Detroit arsenal. They have amazed experts by showing they can achieve 30 miles an hour over good terrain.

This means that the new heavy tank with its 120-millimeter cannon can keep up with light and medium tanks in lightning offensives, and is therefore an all-purpose weapon. Russia's Stalin III mounts a 122-millimeter cannon, but is believed to be considerably slower than the new United States tank. The American Patton tank has a 90-millimeter cannon.

STOP-GAP CONTROLS EXTENSION—Look for Congress to vote a stop-gap extension, perhaps of 90 days, of the economic controls law to prevent it from expiring while a new long-range law is being worked out. The present controls law ends June 30, and it is becoming increasingly evident that Congress will be unable to enact a new law because of the wrangle over economic curbs.

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D), South Carolina, of the Senate banking committee, opposes a stop-gap extension, but he probably would be willing to go along with it if the price controls program were threatened with expiration. Maybank points out that the proposed new law submitted by President Truman may have to be rewritten because of strong congressional opposition to some features and this will take time.

BASEBALL AND CONGRESS—Don't expect anything to come from the House investigation of organized baseball. The hearing by a House monopoly subcommittee will probe charges that baseball's reserve clause is a restraint of trade.

Virtually all baseball witnesses—players as well as management—are expected to testify in favor of the reserve clause which binds players to one team and prevents them from "jumping" to another club at will.

With a great majority of the testimony in support of the reserve clause, there is little chance that the subcommittee will recommend legislation to outlaw it.

Mrs. Herbert Eshelman Is Medalist With 80 In Invitational Tournament

Local Merchants Donate Prizes

A brief, but hard shower, soaked 60 women golfers to the skin as they sent 23 bridge and canasta players to the club house, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the play at the second annual invitational golf tournament for women staged Tuesday at Pickaway Country Club.

Invitations to this colorful affair were extended women golfers from clubs located in Logan, Athens, Portsmouth, Lancaster, Jackson, Washington C. H., Wilkesburg and Chillicothe.

Golfers with their "tack" arrived early, greeted by welcoming signs along the driveway, and ate breakfast on the lawn.

Tee-offs started at 9:30 with many onlookers following the course of play as recorded on a huge scoreboard.

A favorite spot proved to be the tee on number 6 hole where cold drinks were dispensed from a trailer by junior club members. Lawn chairs grouped around a table under a gay umbrella made this a pleasant oasis.

Most of the golfers played 18 holes with an interlude for a snack, and cocktails and lunch were served at the conclusion of play.

Each place was marked by a flag presented by Economy Loan Co.

Other prizes and donations, which made the tournament possible, were given by the following individuals and companies:

Dr. C. G. Stewart, Mrs. George Crites, Kewy Kit Co., Mrs. George Van Camp, Mason Furniture Co., Charles Glitt, Schneider Furniture Co., Timmons Shoe Shop, Mrs. Joseph Becker, Ed Amey, Mecca restaurant, Caddy Miller, Harpster and Yost, Beaver studio, Standard Medical Supply of Columbus, Hamilton's store, Brehmer's Greenhouse, Container Corporation of America, Dr. J. M. Hedger, H. R. Eshelman, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Dwight Steele, David Yates, John Eshelman, Coca-Cola Co., Paul Campbell and Harold Hott.

Out-of-town prize winners were as follows: Medalist, 18 holes, Maude Ludwig, Chillicothe, with 89; low gross, 9 holes, Juanita Knapp, Chillicothe; low net, 18 holes, Julia Newcomb, Washington C. H.; low net, 9 holes, Mrs. John Beilinger, Lancaster; low putts, 18 holes, Flossie Parker, Chillicothe; low putts, 9 holes, Jo Dabe, Washington C. H.; most 8's for 18 holes, Ann Meyer, Logan; most 7's for 9 holes, Maude Miller, Chillicothe; greatest improvement on 2nd 9, Virginia Carter, Washington C. H.; closest to flag on number 2, Jo Miller, Chillicothe.

Local prize winners were: Medalist for 18 holes, Mrs. H. R. Eshelman, with 80; 2nd low gross for 18, Mrs. Dudley Carter; low gross for 9, Mrs. George Van Camp; low net for 18, tie—Mrs. William Goodchild and Mrs. Ned Groom, Mrs. Goodchild won the toss; low net for 9, Miss Ruth Montelius; low putts for 18, tie, Mrs. John Moore and Mrs. Arthur Marshall, Mrs. Moore won the toss; greatest improvement on 2nd 9, Mrs. Wilard Timmons; most 9s on 9 holes, Mrs. Sheldon Mader.

Mrs. Harbaugh of Logan was awarded the door prize; Mrs. Joseph Noecker was winner in canasta; and Mrs. Wead of Washington C. H. won the bridge prize.

Warren, O'Connor Each Are Given Probe Subpoenas

TALLAHASSEE, June 27—Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida, subpoenaed by the Senate Crime Committee, has challenged the chairman of that group to debate gambling in Florida, Maryland and Washington, D. C.

The governor yesterday accepted a subpoena from the Senate committee investigating crime to appear in Washington July 9. Warren asked Sen. Herbert O'Connor, (D) Md., chairman of the committee, to discuss crime with him in July.

Meanwhile, Duval County Solicitor P. Guy Crews sent a subpoena to O'Connor asking him to appear for questioning in Jacksonville.

O'Connor issued the Senate subpoena after the governor declined three invitations to appear at the group's hearing recently in Miami.

Warren suggested that the senator meet with him for a "full frank, no-holds-barred discussion of gambling" in Florida, Maryland and Washington, D. C.

CREWS SAID HE mailed the subpoena to the senator asking him to appear at an unspecified date because he has "reason to believe there was some perjured testimony" at recent committee hearings in Florida.

Warren said in Tallahassee that "it may become my duty to go to Maryland next year and tell the people—some things they may not know about their senator, who is backed by a corrupt, mob-ridden political machine."

He also charged that New York Gambler Frank Costello "has entered business in Baltimore," giving as his source a book authored by Lee Mortimer

2 Men Held Without Bond In Rape Case

ARLINGTON, Va., June 27—An auto mechanic and a truck driver were held without bond today on charges of kidnapping Mrs. Nancy Hotchkiss, a Navy ensign's 19-year-old wife.

Police said the youths, John R. Polk, 19, of Arlington, and William R. Payne, 24, of Bethesda, Md., admitted raping Mrs. Hotchkiss, a bride of ten days, five or six times.

Polk and Payne were arraigned before Judge Hugh Reid who continued the hearings until Tuesday.

Mrs. Hotchkiss told police the men forced her at gunpoint to leave the bed of her husband, James K. Hotchkiss, 23, son of a Chicago investment banker, and Jack Lai, entitled "Washington Confidential."

Teen Tips

Today's popularity quiz is on good manners. Yes, manners do affect your popularity, because it's so much easier to like a girl or boy with smooth manners instead of crude ones. How do you rate?

Who goes first—When a girl and boy get out of a car, the boy gets out, opens the door for the girl and helps her out. When they leave a bus, train or street car it's the same rule. When they get into the car the boy opens the door for the girl and helps her in before he gets in. When they enter a bus, train or street car the girl goes first.

Introductions—Avoid "I want you to meet—" or similar expressions. The simplest introduction is "Jane Smith. . . Bill Brown." "Jane, this is Bill Brown. Bill. . . Jane Smith."

Girl pays check—It's correct for a girl to pay her own check when she and a boy friend meet casually (not planned) while having a soda or snack. She's not his guest unless he suggests it beforehand.

Left out of things — When you're in a group, it's polite to do your share in the conversation, trying to include everybody

Lads Back Home After Boys' State

All 4 Elected To Offices

Four local representatives to the 1951 Buckeye Boys' State in Camp Perry have returned home with a more comprehensive understanding of governmental procedure.

Attending the session, sponsored annually by the American Legion, were Bob Moeller and Gene Clifton of Circleville, James Wheeler of Ashville and Lee Davis of Kingston.

All four boys held offices in this year's Boys' State program. Moeller campaigned and won a seat in the mythical senate. Clifton served as assistant state director of commerce, Wheeler was a city health commissioner and Davis served as a page in the senate.

A total of more than 900 boys from all over Ohio participated in the program, which began with an election of officers and a political rally.

TWO PARTIES, Nationalists and Federalists, were set up during the program. Members of each party were selected by the order of their registration.

The Boys' State was set up with 20 cities and four counties and all members were paid salaries in state currency in proportionate amounts to the salaries paid in real government.

Moeller said that one of the hottest battles in the mythical senate concerned a proposed pay hike for representatives and senators. The proposed salary of $10,000 finally was whittled down to $2,500, he said.

Assemblies featuring addresses by public officials were held every night during this year's program, while the state highway patrol sponsored a judo show.

In addition, various entertainment programs were planned for the youngsters, while a full sports program was conducted.

All four local boys attending this year's program were selected for their high scholastic achievement and for their interest in government. All will be seniors in high school next fall.

Cancer-Stricken Girl Breaks Off Her Engagement

EAST POINT, Ga., June 27—Betty Thompson, 18-year-old cancer-stricken beauty, today blamed the disapproval of Sailer and Tom Amburn's parents for the end of their romance.

The East Point brunette, who physicians believe is doomed to an early death from lung cancer, has sent her engagement ring back to Amburn.

The Navy aviation machinist mate from Sioux Falls, S. D., learned of the dissolution of his engagement from newsman and explained he still loves Betty, but added:

"Now that we have broken up, it's the Navy life for me." Amburn said he had no plans for wooing the girl anew and added:

"I'm not that kind of guy. If this is the way she wants things, then this is the way they'll be. But I don't want to say anything that will hurt her."

Betty said quietly: "It is best for all concerned. I thought Tom's folks knew all along about our wedding plans, but I guess they didn't realize how sick I am. Anyway, they are opposed to our marriage and Tom and I never could be happy together under those circumstances."

Jacob A. Malik's controversial offer to negotiate a cease-fire in Korea—easily the prize cryptogram of the year—has set the world on a flurry of conjecture—and raises one question to which there is no immediate answer: Just how strong does Soviet Russia want Communist China to be?

Despite Malik's new charges of alleged Western imperialism and his propaganda line accusing the United States and Great Britain of responsibility for the Korean war, there never has been any doubt of outright Soviet aid to the North Koreans.

Nor does it seem likely that Communist China would have intervened in what Gen. Douglas MacArthur termed a "brand new war" without full encouragement from the Kremlin.

But the Malik offer was preceded by a new flood of reports that China, badly bled in the Korean fighting, has asked Russia for new military assistance.

To provide this might mean Soviet involvement to an extent over and above that to which Premier Marshal Stalin was willing to commit himself.

AND THE REASONING among some observers goes back to a long-standing belief that the highest policy makers of the Soviet Union do not believe that Asia is big enough for the co-existence of two major powers.

The vast population of China and its intractability in the face of war, famines and floods, is a factor in itself that is bound to affect the policies of Moscow.

Obviously, the Russians will encourage the spread of Communism throughout China and all of Asia.

But whether Stalin and the Politburo would favor the recreation of a strongly militaristic China may be problematical.

The old myth of Chinese Communists being mere "agrarian reformers" instead of adventurous power-seekers was exploded long ago.

But it seems quite reasonable to assume that Russia wants the Chinese masses to be subservient to Moscow's desires. This might not be the case if the USSR were to supply China with the materials and trained officers that might turn the tide of battle in Korea and possibly undo everything that the United Nations has been attempting to accomplish.

Recent reports indicate that a very considerable new air force has been built up in Manchuria under Soviet command.

THE RUSSIANS might call this a purely defensive force and anything that China does to "defend" Russia against any potential aggression naturally would be welcomed.

But the fact remains that Chinese Communists are, in the final analysis, Chinese, with a culture and tradition centuries old and no deep and fundamental affection for the Russians.

There are many places in the world where Russia could cause serious new trouble while ostensibly collaborating in Korean peace efforts.

One such, of course, is Iran, and another is Yugoslavia. Marshal Tito is represented as not fearing an early European war, while at the same time he remains convinced that the Red satellite nations, if not Soviet Russia itself, sooner or later will attempt to eliminate his own type of communism.

But hope springs eternal and it is apparent the Malik offer will not be rejected out of hand if his government will make good.

Pickaway Leads State In Rabies Tests In 1950

Pickaway County led the remainder of the counties in Ohio last year in number of animal heads examined for rabies.

According to the Ohio Department of Health, a total of 103 animal heads were examined from Pickaway County last year—28 more than from any other county.

Next high in number of animal heads submitted for testing was Scioto County, which sent 75, while the next high was Butler County with 46.

Both Pickaway and Scioto Counties were found to have from 25-66 of the heads positive to rabies tests.

However, due to the large number sent from here, the tests for the state as a whole last year tended to show that the percentage of rabies in Ohio has dropped from its peak in 1943.

THE HEALTH department reported that, although more heads were examined in 1950 than in 1943, the percentage of positive heads was much less.

Of the 886 animal heads tested in the state last year, only 301 or 34 percent were found positive.

Pickaway was one of the major rabies areas during the year, the state department reported. An outbreak of rabies in skunks accounted for the majority of the cases from the district.

Vern Pontious for finance officer.

Mrs. Blanche Y. Motschman for chaplain; Marcus Coffland, Orrin Dreisbach, Henry Imler and Harold Stonerock for sergeants-at-arms; and Commander William Betts, Reynold Greene, Even Merriman, James Price and Robert Shadley for executive committeemen.

Ashville

"Mike" Courtright, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Courtright, has returned home from Berger hospital where he underwent a tonsillectomy.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Hedges and family of Athens were business visitors in Ashville Saturday when they sold their home to Russell Costlow.

Reservations already received indicate an attendance of over 400 to the annual Ashville high school alumni banquet to be held Saturday in the school auditorium.

Officers of the Alumni group include Ira Hoover, president; Earl Boyer, vice-president; Miss Joanne Hinkle, secretary; Mrs. Harvey Roby Jr., assistant secretary; Richard E. Fiers, treasurer; and Mrs. Harry Trego, assistant treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bowers, Marilyn and Robert, are en route to California where they will spend a short vacation.

Mrs. Lowell Cooper entertained Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Florence Pritchard of Florida.

VanCamp Files Low Bid On Repaving Jobs

George Van Camp was reported low bidder on four road resurfacing projects in Pickaway County by the state highway department.

Van Camp submitted a bid of $50,147 for 6.52 miles of State Route 56 in Circleville, Salt Creek, Washington and Pickaway Township; 3.19 miles of State Route 159 in Salt Creek Township; 7.49 miles of State Route 56 in Salt Creek Township, and 7.06 miles of State Route 188 in Circleville, Washington, Walnut Townships; estimate $45,950. The bid was among $1,545,806 worth of low unchecked bids opened by the state highway department Wednesday on 32 road resurfacing projects and one bridge repainting job. The department estimated the work would cost $1,645,382.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO
Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator of the estate of Emma Johnson, deceased, vs. Defendants
Heien Hughes, et al. Case No. 16289

Albert Johnson and Francis Johnson, the only known heirs and next-of-kin of Emma Johnson, deceased, whose places of residence are unknown and cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained, legates, assignees, executors, administrators, legal representatives and husband of Emma Johnson, deceased, will take notice that Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator of the estate of Emma Johnson, deceased, on the 22nd day of May, 1951, filed his petition in the Probate Court within and for the County of Pickaway, and State of Ohio, alleging that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay her debts and the charges of administering her estate; that she died seized in fee simple of an undivided one-half interest of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and in the City of Circleville, to-wit: Being a strip 20 feet in width; Beginning at a point of said lot numbered 888, and at the northeast corner of the part of said lot owned by Eph Hyman, thence with his east line to a southerly direction with a line parallel to the east of said part of said lot owned by Eph Hyman, and 20 feet distant therefrom to the south line of Ohio Street; thence with the south line of Ohio Street in a westerly direction 20 feet to the place of beginning.

The said petition alleges that the defendant Helen Hughes is the owner in fee simple of the other one-half interest of the above described real estate. The prayer of said petition is for sale of the entire interest in the said decedent's estate for the payment of the debts and charges of the estate of Emma Johnson, and for the distribution of Helen Hughes's share to her as owner of the other undivided one-half interest.

Two persons first above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 14th day of July, 1951.

Albert Johnson and Francis Johnson, the only known heirs and next-of-kin of Emma Johnson, deceased, whose places of residence are unknown and cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained, legates, assignees, executors, administrators, legal representatives and husband of Emma Johnson, deceased, will take notice that Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator of the estate of Emma Johnson, deceased, on the 22nd day of May, 1951, filed his petition in the Probate Court within and for the County of Pickaway, and State of Ohio, alleging that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay her debts and the charges of administering her estate; that she died seized in fee simple of an undivided one-half interest of the following described real estate: Situated in the County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and in the City of Circleville, to-wit: Being a strip 20 feet in width; Beginning at a point of said lot numbered 888, and at the northeast corner of the part of said lot owned by Eph Hyman, thence with his east line to a southerly direction with a line parallel to the east of said part of said lot owned by Eph Hyman, and 20 feet distant therefrom to the south line of Ohio Street; thence with the south line of Ohio Street in a westerly direction 20 feet to the place of beginning.

The said petition alleges that the defendant Helen Hughes is the owner in fee simple of the other one-half interest of the above described real estate. The prayer of said petition is for sale of the entire interest in the said decedent's estate for the payment of the debts and charges of the estate of Emma Johnson, and for the distribution of Helen Hughes's share to her as owner of the other undivided one-half interest.

Two persons first above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 14th day of July, 1951.

Kenneth M. Robbins, administrator, as above foresaid

Big Darby Creek Hole Is Tested

Conservation Men Show Whoppers

One of the most-fished spots in Pickaway County was tested this week to prove that it isn't "fished out."

In conjunction with a district conservation meeting, four large test nets were placed in the always popular fishing hole at Jewey Park in Big Darby Creek this week.

The hole probably sees more lines, hooks and sinkers during a Summer's fishing than any other single spot in this part of the state.

During Tuesday's meeting of game protectors and conservation men in the park, the nets were lifted.

Local anglers arriving on the scene gazed with admiration as the conservation men hefted some bass weighing several pounds apiece and placed them into a tub.

TWO OF the largemouth black bass shown would have measured about 19 inches long and might have weighed about four pounds each.

In addition, some nice, big channel catfish and shovelheads were lifted into the tub, along with bluegills hand-length or longer, suckers and carp.

Two wire enclosed boxes were located along the south shore of the creek. From one of the boxes came the catch described above.

From the other livebox, however, came a scrawny assortment of carp, one channel catfish and several rock bass and shad.

The fish in the latter livebox came from the stream. The other fish, the beauties, were hatchery grown and fed.

The conservation men explained later that the hatchery fish were brought along for a special species-identification lecture held in conjunction with the Tuesday meeting.

"Just in case the nets don't produce."

The conservationists, in charge of the operation added that the results of the test-net program were not conclusive.

"The creek is up and muddy and the nets were choked with leaves and brush," he said. "You really can't judge from this."

As an added attraction for local anglers, the fish brought down from the hatchery were later released in the hole.

North Texas Wins Tourney

COLUMBUS, June 27—North Texas State college today is gold-dom's national intercollegiate team champion—for the third straight year.

The Texas team bested some 54 other colleges from 24 states competing in the 54th annual NCAA golf championships at Ohio State university.

Yesterday's action was also the climax of a two-day 36-hole qualifying test for 192 title aspirants. Sam Kocsis, 32-year-old fa-day.

TWO OF THE ring's top sluggers, Jake LaMotta (left) and Bob Murphy square off as New York Boxing Commission Chairman Eddie Eagan plays middleman after a physical checkup for their Wednesday night bout in the big city. LaMotta, ex-middle king, moves into lightweight ranks for the fight which will not be aired by either radio or television. Murphy is favored 13-10.

Giants Clip Preacher Roe, Hang One On The Shaky Brooklyn Crew

NEW YORK, June 27—It was a long Roe to hoe, but the New York Giants finally hung one on the ace of that shaky Brooklyn Dodger pitching staff.

And if Preacher Roe doesn't win, neither do the Dodgers.

Acknowledged front man in the drive that put the Brooklyn six full games ahead of New York in the National League race, Roe brought his gaudy 10-and-0 won-and-lost mark before 45,733 fans in the Polo Grounds last night.

And with Sal Maglie, the pitching buzzsaw, hurling three-hit ball for his 12th triumph, the Giants pounded Roe for a 4 to 0 victory to narrow the gap to five games.

The Chicago White Sox smashed

ed the Detroit Tigers 11 to 3 before a roaring 47,120 crowd in a Comiskey Park last night to move two full games ahead of New York in the American League chase.

The Yankees found themselves whacked by the Washington Senators, 7 to 3 as Conrado Marrero pitched to his seventh victory for the Nats.

The Boston Red Sox, with Mel Parnell pitching to his ninth victory and Vern Stephens poling a pair of homers, butchered the Philadelphia A's for a 13 to 5 victory that kept the Sox four games back of the lead.

In Cleveland, Luke Easter slammed a two-run circuit shot with two out in the last of the tenth to give the Indians a 6 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

In the National League, the Phillies moved over Boston and into fifth place as Bubba Church blanked the Braves 7 to 0 to run his streak of consecutive scoreless innings to 26-1-3. It was Church's sixth straight win and eighth of the year.

Howie Pollet pitched a four-hitter and scored the winning run himself in the ninth for a 3-to-2 Pittsburgh Pirate win over the Cincinnati Reds.

In St. Louis, the Chicago Cubs scored twice in the tenth to beat the Cardinals 7 to 5.

3 Golfers Tied In Ohio Amateur Title Contest

YOUNGSTOWN, June 27—An insurance adjuster, a steel worker and an ex-Marine led the field today going into the final round of the 36-hole qualifier for the Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.

Deadlocked at 71 after yesterday's opening 18 holes are George Walsh of Zanesville 36-35-71, Lou Bobalo of Youngstown 38-33-71 and Al Hager of Mansfield 36-35-71.

Hager, a Pacific war veteran, has been a strong finisher for the title during the last six seasons.

Welsh, the insurance adjuster, and Bobala, a clerk in the locomotive shop of Republic Steel Co., are rated dark horses in the tourney.

Tom Jones Jr. of Youngstown stayed one shot behind with a 34-38-72 and tied at third with 73 are Dan Carmichael of Columbus, Vince Leskosky of Youngstown and Cleveland's Harold D. Paddock Jr., member of this year's Walker Cup team.

Some 64 golfers are expected to qualify for the tourney which opens tomorrow.

Ken Reid Hurls No-Hitter As Top Hat Wins 2

Top Hat Pitcher Kenneth Reid hurred a no-hit shutout victory over invading Belmont A. C. softballers of Columbus Tuesday night in Ted Lewis Park.

Reid's banner performance earned him a 3-0 victory over the Belmonters in the nightcap of a twin bill won by the Hatters during the evening.

The Hatter hurler fanned 11 of the Belmont swatters in the final game while his team collected the win with three runs on six hits and one error.

Wilson Clark, Hatter third sacker, opened the final game with a flourish. First batter in the lineup, Clark rapped out a homerun to give his team a 1-0 edge.

In the first game Hatter Hurler Stillman Morrison held the Belmont team to only four hits while the local softballers swept into a lopsided 12-3 victory.

MORRISON WHIFFED five of the Belmont batters while his team scored 12 runs on 12 hits and committed two errors.

A double bill carded for Wednesday night in the park was cancelled by the early morning rain Wednesday. Next performance in the park will be a double bill Saturday night between Top Hat and Texaco of Chillicothe.

Five Youngsters Win Treats In Park Tourney

Five youngsters attending the Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program were awarded ice cream treats Tuesday for winning in a checkers tournament.

Winning honors and treats in the tournament were Alice Smith, Georgie Rife, Kendall D. Wilson, Ike Schaffer and Dan Lenhardt.

Wednesday's park program was expected to have been curtailed by the heavy rain.

Supervisor Dick West said Wednesday's park program probably would consist of board games and features in the park shelter house.

Slated for Thursday in the park are relay races for girls, basketball for boys, a story hour, soap carving and sidewalk tennis tournament.

Friday's activities, closing the second week of this year's park program, will consist of a mid-day baseball league game, croquet, leathercraft, balloon-blowing contest and a free play period.

10-Point Program Being Outlined For Farm Safety Week

President Proclaims Observance

July 22-28 Set For National Plan

To back up the call for safe practices during National Farm Safety Week (July 22-28), Pickaway County farmers have been urged to carefully study the following ten points:

1. Keep machines in good repair. Keep all guards and safety devices in place. Stop machines before unclogging, oiling or adjusting them. Don't wear floppy clothes around machines.

2. Operate tractors safely: Start tractors smoothly; turn corners slowly. Avoid ditch banks and soft ground. Always hitch to the drawbar.

3. Use the right tools for the job: Make sure your tools are in a good, safe condition. Keep them in a safe place.

4. Watch your step to prevent falls: Keep ladders and steps in good repair, with no loose rungs. Make sure they are easily accessible in case of emergency.

5. Speak to animals when approaching them: Keep them calm by acting with calm self assurance yourself. Keep bulls in a safe bull pen.

6. Know and obey all traffic laws: Follow safe driving practices. Read and heed all traffic signs.

7. Be "firesighted": Don't smoke around the barn. Pour gasoline or kerosene outdoors to prevent the accumulation of treacherous vapors. Dry clean outdoors. Don't use kerosene to start fires. Be careful with matches.

8. Be a good housekeeper: Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place.

9. Apply first aid promptly: Even minor injuries may be dangerous if they are not treated immediately. Keep first aid kits in the house, in the barn and on the tractor.

10. Treat guns as if they were loaded: Keep guns unloaded except when actually using them. Aim only at targets you want to shoot.

Encouraging all farm residents to adopt safe practices in all phases of farm life is the goal set by President Truman in proclaiming the eighth observance of National Farm Safety Week.

The President's proclamation said, in part: "Experience has proved that observance of safe practices in working and living can reduce accidents. . . Now, therefore, I urgently request each member of every farm family to adopt safe practices. . . to drive safely, work safely and live safely."

"I also request all organizations and persons interested in farm life to join in a continuing program to encourage the idea that farming the safe way is farming the right way."

City May Lose Rent Controls

COLUMBUS, June 27 — Rent controls in Columbus today appeared to be doomed unless Congress extends the controls law which expires Saturday.

City Council President Henry A. Koontz said he would ask City Attorney Richard W. Gordon whether Columbus could pass its

'Combine Clinic' Scheduled To Aid Both Implement Dealers, Farmers

A "combine clinic" for all Pickaway County farmers and implement dealers will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at Richards Implement Co. in Circleville.

Larry Best, county extension agent, said the clinic is open to all farmers and farm machinery dealers interested in better combining.

Instructor for the clinic will be Sam Huber, agricultural engineer in the extension department of Ohio State university.

"He'll demonstrate the proper combine adjustments, best speeds and care and maintenance of combines," Best said.

"We have a lot of wheat in our first year meadows in the county this year," Best added.

"Wheat which should have been taken to the elevator or granary last Summer if proper combining operations were observed."

The county agent added that Pickaway County farmers "may be combining next week."

"Very little wheat around here is cut with binders any more," Best said, "but the farmers who still use binders are either out in the fields right now or are getting ready to cut."

The county agent explained that the Wednesday clinic will cover the principles the farmer needs to know about either tractor-drawn or self-propelled combines of any make or model.

Idle Pay Claims Holding Steady

New claims for unemployment compensation in Pickaway County last week remained the same as the week before, while continued claims dropped slightly, according to C. C. Thomas, local Bureau of Unemployment Compensation manager.

Thomas said only three new claims were filed last week, while continued claims dropped from 26 for the week ending June 16 to last week's 24. Throughout the state, new claims climbed while continued claims dropped.

City Manager Ralph W. Snyder said the average person will have consumed a tablespoon full of the tasteless material in ten years time.

Westerville Adds Fluoride To Water

COLUMBUS, June 27—Westerville is the first and only city in Ohio today whose water supply contains fluoride—a compound said to reduce tooth decay.

The city passed a resolution June 19 for fluoride in its water and today Westerville is using a ration of about one gallon of fluoride to every one million gallons of water.

City Manager Ralph W. Snyder said the average person will have consumed a tablespoon full of the tasteless material in ten years time.

The wife's petition lists extreme cruelty as the grounds for the divorce. It also states they were married Aug. 27, 1938, in Greenup, Ky., and have four children.

Mrs. Laveck asks for custody of the children, alimony and an injunction to keep the husband from molesting her.

14 Million Tax Errors Claimed

WASHINGTON, June 27—The Treasury Department estimated today that 14 million of the 50 million individual income tax returns filed in 1940 contained errors.

The department said that these returns contain tax errors aggregating $1.5 billion and all but $100 million of it represent additional tax owed to the government.

own rent control legislation. Gordon remarked informally: "Handling rent controls from the municipal level would be out of the question, largely because the cost would be prohibitive."

Ships Captain Admits Casting Off Stowaway

MIAMI, June 27—The captain of a Honduran freighter has admitted putting a stowaway off his ship several miles from tropical shores, but claimed the action was taken at the request of the illegal passenger—an escaped convict from Devil's Island.

Thyman Nooitgedagt, Dutch captain of the freighter "Solarina," said he discovered the stowaway last March after leaving St. Laurent, near the famed French penal colony.

He attacked stories by two former seamen from the vessel who claim the captain mercilessly cast off the convict six miles from shore on a makeshift raft.

He added that he was considering court action against the seamen for stealing large amounts of equipment from the "Solarina" before they left its service.

The seamen, Carl Osterman and Trygve Jacobsen, formerly served as first mate and chief engineer respectively on the craft.

They said when it was discovered the stowaway escaped from the island and was serving a life term for murder, the French-speaking captain ordered ed a raft made from two oil barrels crossed with planks.

Osterman said the convict—about 45 years old—was given a crude paddle and put off the ship despite protests by the crew.

Osterman said he managed to slip a can of corned beef, a can of evaporated milk and a loaf of bread on the raft.

Neither Osterman nor Jacobsen can speak French, the only language used by the stowaway while aboard the "Solarina."

1946 Marriage End Is Asked

A divorce petition has been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court by George H. Grooms against Juanita J. Grooms.

The couple was married Aug. 23, 1946, in Bellefontaine. They have no children. The husband's petition accuses the wife of gross neglect of duty. He asks for the divorce and restoration of the wife's former name.

200 Ships Get Union Clearance

NEW YORK, June 27—Union clearance was granted today to 200 ships tied up in Atlantic and Gulf ports in an end to the 11-day maritime tieup caused by three CIO affiliates.

Last to come to an agreement with the shipowners last night was the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. Previously agreements had been reached by the National Maritime Union and the American Radio Association.

The engineers won an eight percent wage increase, a liberalized vacation scheme and hiring through union halls of all but first assistant and chief engineers.
